CuatroGatos Foundation is a non-profit organization created in Miami, United States, by the authors Sergio Andricain and Antonio Orlando Rodriguez, to work in favor of culture and education. Among its principal objectives are the investigation and study of publishing in Spanish dedicated to children and juvenile readers.

The CuatroGatos Foundation Award was established to contribute to the promotion and the reading of high-quality children’s books created by Ibero-American writers and illustrators.

Each year, after reading, analyzing and discussing a broad and representative sample of fiction books that are published in Spanish by publishers of Ibero-America and the United States, a committee make the selection of the CuatroGatos Foundation Award winning titles. In this opportunity, more than 1,500 books published by 175 publishers from 19 countries were considered.

These are 20 highly recommended books for their literary and artistic values that, according to our institution, deserve to have the highest possible dissemination. By awarding the CuatroGatos Foundation Prize, we want to contribute to reaching the highest number of homes, schools, libraries and other places where the young readers can meet with works of the highest quality.

In addition to the 20 winning books and of the finalists, this digital brochure includes a selection of 100 works recommended by our CuatroGatos Foundation.
In the tab of each book appears a suggestion about who can be your possible readers. This should be seen only as a general guidance. Instead of grouping books by ages or grades of schooling of their recipients, we prefer to use five categories which refer to different levels in the reader's training process. They are:

For the little ones who can’t read Books for prelectors, which require the presence of an adult intermediary to help children relate to both written text and illustrations.

For those who start reading Simple language and structure books, which allow the child to explore their newly acquired skill as a stand-alone reader. Books that you can read independently or with the supervision and support of an adult mediator.

For those who took off as readers Literary works of greater elaboration and exigency that can be enjoyed by those who already read with ease and have gained confidence in their skills.

For those who dare with challenging books Books for courageous readers, who are not intimidated by the complexity of the works or by their extension. Proposals that demand a greater commitment from the reader in his capacity as co-creator of the literary text.

For those who became great readers Works that can captivate and enrich an experienced reader, capable of facing all kinds of challenges related to both formal construction and content. Books-bridges to move to the universe of adult literature.

This year, the list of the 20 winning titles of the Cuatrogatos Foundation Award 2019 includes picture books, poems, short stories and novels intended for a very diverse range of recipients: from babies to young adults. The winning books were published in Argentina, Colombia, El Salvador, Spain, and Mexico.

The prizes are chosen by a team of professionals of multidisciplinary training, philology, education, journalism, sociology, librarianship, theater, plastic arts, that share the interest for the creation and the study of children's and young people's literature. The members of this group are looking for quality, intelligent, fun, touching, disturbing, thought-provoking ideas. They highlight books that they would like others to know and read.

We hope that the result of this research work of the publishing offer in Spanish, which is carried out on a permanent basis, by the Cuatrogatos Foundation, is useful for parents, teachers, librarians, publishers, researchers, journalists, creators artistic and all those adults interested in promoting reading among the young ones. Below, in alphabetical order of titles, the 20 winning books of the Cuatrogatos Foundation Award 2019:

For those who dare with challenging books
This wordless book —yet full of questions— is an ecological parable that invites us to observe the details of the illustrations, to follow the development of the plot and to build the story. The scenario, a deserted island, which is idyllic at first, undergoes serious transformations as men begin to industrialize the land and exploit the island’s natural resources irrationally. The important issue of the care of the planet and sustainable development is posed intelligently in this book, with an open and seemingly hopeful ending.

For those who became great readers
With elegant poetic prose, this book recreates the daily life, conflicts, and aspirations of a student of classical ballet and of several of his classmates. The challenges of his demanding search for perfection and the doubts about his vocation are some of the complex themes developed by this novel through the use of solid structure and language, which displays an elaborate choreography of actions, feelings, and emotions. As an enriching correlate, the book evoke moments of the life of Russian dancer Vaslav Nijinsky and introduces disturbing resonances to the plot.

Cómo meter una ballena en una maleta

Picture book
ISBN: 978-84-947304-4-3

For those who start reading
The protagonist of this story is about to start “a long, long journey,” but before leaving, he has to solve a difficult problem. He needs to take his whale with him, and... How can you put something so huge in such a small suitcase? With a great combination of text and graphic images, this proposal makes appropriate use of the format of the accordion-book, which the reader receives stored inside a cardboard box shaped like a suitcase, in perfect harmony with the aesthetic of the narrative. This is another original and poetic approach to the serious problem of contemporary migrations, an experience that is becoming more and more common all around the world.

For those who start reading
The discovery of a box full of memories allows a girl to explore the world of her mother’s childhood and become the heir to a rich legacy of memories and feelings. With realistic illustrations, a great evocative power, and a simple text that invites you to travel to the past, this elegant and nostalgic picture book provides the possibility to younger readers to become aware of a different time—and compare it to their own—. A time where the days were more longer, the games more simpler and fun, where you didn’t need much, and where “all the neighbors in town were like one big family.”

Short stories

For those who took off as readers
For three nights, which may well be a thousand and one, like those of Scheherazade, a child demands that his father tell him tales. But the father, who comes home exhausted, can only tell him “tired tales.” Splashed with yawns, silences and some snores, his fantastic stories stand out for surreal humor and imagination. With a splendid display of great illustrations and tiny, funny vignettes, these hilarious dialogues are a celebration of fantasy and also of complicity and emotional communication between parents and children.

La Distante

Ciudad de México: Ediciones El Naranjo, Secretaría de Cultura, 2018
Short story

For those who became great readers
This narrative tells an impossible love story in the middle of a hostile and magical landscape, complemented with striking illustrations. Young Manek, guardian of a tower located on the edge of the desert, has “the sharpest and most powerful eyes that have ever been.” Thanks to the power of his gaze he’s able to see the beautiful Akundi -a woman who has been condemned to solitude by the curse of a god- and falls in love with her at a distance. This is a powerful story, characterized by an excellent management of both language and the dramatic progression, creates a hypnotic universe bursting with legends and tragic destinies.

Elio. Una historia animatográfica
Diego Arboleda
Illustrations by Raúl Sagospe
Madrid: Anaya, 2017
Novel
ISBN: 978-84-698-0885-6

For those who dare with challenging books
Set in the Madrid of 1896, with the rivalry between the Animatograph of Erwin Rousby and the Cinématographe of the Lumière brothers as a backdrop, this is a captivating novel thanks to the quality and richness of its style, its dazzling imaginative display, and its recreation of an era in which the moving images surprised the audiences. This is a highly enjoyable narrative due to its ambitious and well-delineated plot, its extensive gallery of unusual characters, and its fruitful dialogue between the text and the illustrations.

En el bosque
Text de Ana María Matute
Illustrations by Elena Odriozola
Barcelona: Libros del Zorro Rojo, 2017
Object-book
ISBN: 978-84-94773-43-3

For those who dare with challenging books
Intimacy, lyricism, and elegance define this exceptional book-object. The brief text in poetic prose, which offers the metaphor of literature as a beautiful forest “where infinite stories that have never been written and perhaps never will be written reside”, is accompanied by an interactive graphic proposal: nine illustrated cards that —similar to “myrioramas”, popular visual toys of the 19th century— can be combined in more than three hundred thousand different ways. This is a literary, visual and playful artifact of great beauty that invites the reader to explore the endless forests of the imagination.
En la senda del contrario

Martín Blasco

Buenos Aires: Editorial Norma, 2018
Novel
ISBN: 978-987-545-733-1

For those who became great readers

Elder Farouk, a “man of the road” who has learned to live with the essential and without taking root anywhere, is forced by hunger to stop in a city ruled by a king who has been locked in a tower for twenty years and who oppresses his people. Unwittingly, Faruk becomes a hero and leads a rebellion to free the people from this tyrannical king. A solid novel, full of subtleties and surprises. Set in an imprecise time and scenario, this book place the reader face to face with a successful game of mirrors and different universal conflicts.

La huerta de Simón

Rocío Alejandro

Buenos Aires: Calibroscopio Ediciones, 2018
Picture book

For those who start reading

“He had a cage, and he who has a cage always finds an animal to enclose inside of it.” This book successfully integrates a concise and effective text with expressive illustrations that emphasize the feelings of the characters and the connotations of the spaces. This emotive story speaks of painful experiences, universal emotions, and learning, and it’s capable of connecting with the sensibilities of readers of different ages. In short, this is an allegory about freedom, respect for living beings, and the responsibility that individuals have over their own choices.

Short story

For those who took off as readers

Ever since her mother died, little Mari has stopped talking, and her brothers brothered her saying that “the cat caught her tongue.” In hopes of helping his little girl, her father decides to send her to spend the summer with his uncles Juan and Sara, in the town of Tepexpan, where he hopes she will recover her words and the joy of living. Written in free verse, this story of manners and warm humanism speaks about the pain of loss, silence, the healing power of love, and the flow of life.

Poetry

For those who took off as readers
Sixteen poems lead the reader through magical geography of daily or fantastic scenarios and encourage encounters with familiar characters —“My grandmother was made of ashes / and corn and water”— or legendary and amazing characters —like Arctic, the old man, “Whale hunter / with a three-meter beard.” Reality and dream create a dialogue within these excellent verses enriched with suggestive illustrations. This is a book to help us discover that authentic poetry, much like the voices of old fairies, is a mystery always waiting to be revealed.

La merienda del parque
Text de Pablo Albo
Illustrations by Cecilia Moreno
Madrid: Narval Editores, 2017
Picture book
ISBN: 978-84-946784-7-9

For those who start reading
An ingenious picture book of urban setting, which is inspired by a traditional motif (a child having a snack in the park) to present an almost surreal adventure. The text moves, with humor and poetry, through an ambiguous territory that switches between reality and fantasy. The visual treatment relies on figures of great simplicity, geometric codes and vectorial images, and it also plays with the signage to represent both the scenario of the story and its many characters and elements—a refined and original proposal.

Nidos que arrullan. Nanas, cantos y arrullos de América Latina

Buenos Aires: Ojoreja, 2017
Poetry

For the little ones who can’t read
This beautiful book/CD set offers children and parents a selection of poems and traditional songs so that they can “continue to build ties between generations.” Both the texts and the exquisite illustrations—which evoke elements and motifs of Latin American folk art—are integrated into an incredibly elegant graphic design. The musical complement by Teresa Usandivaras and Pablo Spiller, and the voice of Laura Devetach sharing rhymes and spells, constitute a true “sound treasure” that further enriches this valuable aesthetic proposal.

For those who start reading
Every morning, little Juan Fernando observes how Don Jacobo arrives at the park and sits on a bench at the top of the hill. One day, unexpectedly, the old man gives the child an old coin that he will go on to keep for many years. Later on, grown into an old man himself, Juan Fernando is the one who now sits on the same bench to watch the children play and enjoy the mysterious perfume of the wind. An enigmatic and moving story about childhood and old age, the passage of time, and the power of memories.

For those who took off as readers
The sea, object of inspiration for many authors throughout history, is the great protagonist of this beautiful poetry book. A sensory, evocative and vital work that presents the different faces of the sea and tells us about sailors, sirens, sailboats, and islands; an invitation to enjoy with intensity and fullness the color and taste of words. These verses bring us closer to poetry through different paths and languages: from lyricism and melancholy to musical play and humor.

Por una manzana
Neus Caamaño
Sevilla: Tres Tigres Tristes, 2018
Picture book
ISBN: 978-84-947304-6-7

For the little ones who can't read
Can a red, delicious and seemingly inoffensive apple unleash an irrational confrontation with unsuspected consequences? By employing a sequence of images full of charm and forcefulness instead of words, this book answers the aforementioned question and invites us to reflect on concepts such as ambition, power, and money. The powerful graphic narrative, with an effective chromatic range, concludes with an end that oscillates between the ironic and the pathetic, and it invites us to reflect on the futility of certain behaviors.

Un año... Poemas para seguir las estaciones
Text de Ángeles Quinteros
Illustrations by Ángeles Vargas
Barcelona: Yekibud Editores, 2017
Poetry
ISBN: 978-84-947989-2-4

For those who start reading
A literary stroll that takes us through the four seasons of the year, conceived from the perspective of a child lyrical subject of convincing verisimilitude. The verses of delicate minimalism seek to transmit the charm of the fleeting and transient (“A hummingbird / stops time / —silence— / is still in the air!”). The illustrations evoke Matisse’s final stage, and they dialogue harmoniously with the synthesis of the texts. A small book of remarkable grace, simplicity, and formal coherence.

Novel

For those who became great readers
An unexpected epidemic unleashes chaos in the country, and the government declares the suspension of individual guarantees. Two “geek” students with different personalities -Bosco and his friend Moscamuerta- will discover the truth hidden behind the mysterious virus and the ensuing riots. With sharp and sarcastic humor, this social fable proposes an adventure of horror that “is not about zombies or vampires, but almost.” Illustrations of marked expressionist vocacion enrich this original, transgressive, and critical novel of great fluidity and communicative power.
We highlight a group of titles that turned out to be finalists in the selection of the winning works of the CuatroGatos Foundation Award 2019.

These books—published by publishers in Argentina, Spain, and Mexico—were greatly valued for their literary, visual and artistic quality, publishing during the jury’s work sessions and were opting for a place among the 20 award-winning up to the last round of eliminations.

The finalists are books with significant merits, whose reading is also recommended keenly.

For those who dare with challenging books
The process to select the 20 books winners of the Cuatrogatos Foundation Award 2019 involved a work of several months of reading, with several meetings for analysis and debate. During that time, our working group assessed around 1,500 titles of Ibero-American authors or illustrators of the recent publication, released by 175 publishers from 19 countries.

During this critical exercise, we found several books that received favorable criteria, so we recommend reading in homes, schools, and libraries. Next, we share with whom they operate as mediators between books and children and juvenile readers, a selection that gathers 100 works that we would like that many people could know and read. This selection includes books from Argentina, Bolivia, Chile, Colombia, Ecuador, Spain, United States, Mexico, Nicaragua, Peru, Uruguay, and Venezuela.
